Any words of wisdom? As an educator, volatile and difficult decisions occur every minute of the day that impact student lives. When these difficult times arise, I believe you allow the simplicity and the truth of the moment to manifest itself, or choose to replace it w/the complexity and confusion of what we think we wish to see. This is the one choice we make in every moment of every day. The present moment simply is. Allow what is present, study and learn from the past, and anticipate the future.
